

WEBER Jean

(1822 -) ¹

Leudelage

Biography

Jean WEBER was born in Leudelage in 1822. His father was a Förster.

Jean made his maréchal ferrant apprenticeship outside of Luxembourg (see below) and subsequently returned to Leudelage.

Together with his younger brother Dominique, Jean invented a novel plough. The two brothers filed a patent application on 14 March 1849 as co-inventors.

After examination they obtained a patent on 9 October 1849.

The WEBER brothers left Leudelage and each established his own workshop, Jean in Reckange-sur-Mess and Dominique in Sandweiler.

It is not known when and where Jean WEBER died.
