

D'HUART Emile

(1861 - 1918) ¹

Mondorf-les-Bains

Biography

Peter Paul Emil d'HUART was born in Mondorf-les-Bains, son of Gustave d'HUART (1828-1899), a Grenzaufseher and Antoinette CAMPILL (1827-1910), born in Echternach.

Emile d'HUART's father Gustave was the son of Jean François Joseph Charles d'HUART, baron propriétaire du château de Puttelange-lès-Thionville.

His mother Antoinette CAMPILL was born in Echternach, daughter of a local boucher. ²

In 1884 Emile d'HUART obtained a doctorat en sciences physiques et mathématiques, went to Berlin as researcher for two years and came back to Luxembourg to become professeur de chimie at the Athénée and later professeur at the Cours Supérieurs de l'École industrielle et commerciale.

He played an active role in the local scientific and official circles as can be seen from his avis mortuaire: ³

Professeur de chimie à l'École Industrielle et Commerciale
Préposé au laboratoire de chimie de l'Etat
Vice-Président du Comité de l'Université Populaire
Chevalier de la Couronne de Chêne
Chevalier de l'Ordre Léopold de Belgique décoré de la Croix de l'Aigle Rouge de Prusse

He also was the author of many publications (see Addendum).

Emile d'HUART, at the age of 56, died in 1918 in Luxembourg-city (Ausserer Ring 19).

¹ FamilySearch database (GKY5-68Q)

² Antoinette CAMPILL's father JeanPierre CAMPILL was born in Echternach. He was married 4 times and had a total of 26 children, Antoinette being the second but last. When she was born her father was 74 years old.

³ Luxemburger Wort, 16 February 1918, pages 2-3